My Choice for Keeping in Touch

Many people like to think of the past experiences and I am one of them. When I go on trips I keep everything from bus tickets to leaflets (传单) and I always take hundreds of photographs to look at when I get home. I love thinking of happy memories and remembering exciting adventures I have had. Having something to look at makes this easier. One of the most interesting ways to remember things is to read old letters, either ones that you have sent to yourself or letters you have received from someone else.

Living abroad this year has really made me think about how I keep in touch with my family and friends. One of the things I enjoy doing most is writing them letters. I sit down with a cup of tea and write down everything exciting that has happened to me in the past few weeks or since I last spoke to them. It forces me to think about all the wonderful things which have happened. Writing them down can help remind me of how lucky I am to be able to experience so many new things.

Not only is writing letters an excellent thing to do, but I always think the best part is when you receive a letter in reply! There is something so exciting about receiving post, especially when the address is handwritten and you can see that somebody has put time and effort into staying in touch with you. It is so special to have a box full of old letters, and reading them back years later reminds you of all the exciting things you once did.

In a world where we update (更新) our friends very often over social apps, it is easy to forget to reach out to people individually (单独地). I think that by writing a letter, even just a note on the back of a postcard, you remind people that you are thinking of them.

In ten or twenty years we are will going to be able to look back at our memories and see what we were doing. Are we going to be able to reread our conversations with family and friends? Nobody knows, but having something physical to hold such as a letter means you will always have these memories.

49. According to the passage, the writer keeps the following except _____.
- A. bus tickets B. notebooks C. letters D. leaflets
50. What can we learn from Paragraph 1?
- A. The writer is good at telling stories.
 B. The writer enjoys traveling very much.
 C. The writer likes doing physical exercise
 D. The writer loves thinking of his past experiences.
51. According to the passage, the writer probably agrees that _____.
- A. writing letters makes him feel very happy.
 B. he is forced to write down what has happened to him.
 C. we cannot keep in touch with friends over social apps.
 D. writing letters is excellent and better than receiving letters
52. The writer's purpose is to _____.
- A. stop people from using social apps too much
 B. tell people to care about their family and friends
 C. encourage people to write letters to keep in touch
 D. point out some problems of modern communication

Hyperloop (超级高铁)

The system of public transportation (交通) is not new to everyone. However, it seems that the system is going to experience important changes. The future steel tube transportation system is called Hyperloop.

In the United States, a company is working on a project that could change the way we think about public transportation. Its planned system would move people around in steel tubes. Those passengers would be traveling at speeds of up to 1,200 km/h.

Workers plan to test the system next year in a specially built community called Quay Valley. The town will be powered totally by energy from the sun, which is called solar energy.

The Hyperloop transport system is the idea of businessman Elon Musk. Dirk Ahlborn, the head of Hyperloop Transportation Technologies, says his company has taken Mr. Musk's idea and is developing a system that will be safe, environmentally friendly and fast.

"It's 100 percent solar powered...we're not going to get up to 760 miles every hour, but we believe we can actually break the records at present."

This means that a four-hour drive from Los Angeles, California to Las Vegas, Nevada, could someday take only 30 minutes by Hyperloop.

The system involves several capsules that float (漂浮) inside a long tube. They would not need to travel along a road or track. The system has been designed to operate above or below ground.

"Inside the tube you create a low pressure (低气压) environment very similar to a plane that's at high altitudes (高海拔). So now the capsule travelling inside the steel tube doesn't meet with as much resistance, and as a result it can travel really fast with very little energy."

Dirk Ahlborn and his company will use an eight-kilometer track in Quay Valley to find the best way to set up passenger traffic and repair capsules. As we all can expect, if Mr. Ahlborn and his company succeed, we may one day see these very fast Hyperloop capsules speeding through tubes around the world.

53. What will the future public transportation probably be like?
- A. It will be fast but dangerous.
 - B. People will move around in steel tubes.
 - C. People will travel at speeds of up to 1,000 km/h.
 - D. It will take 2 hours from Los Angeles to Las Vegas by Hyperloop.
54. What does the word "resistance" in paragraph 8 possibly mean?
- A. A force which slows things down.
 - B. A force which gives things power.
 - C. A force which pushes things forwards
 - D. A force which gets energy from the sun.
55. Which of the following is true according to the passage?
- A. It's impossible for us to break the present records.
 - B. The capsules float inside a long tube along a road or track.
 - C. The idea of the future transport system is from Dirk Ahlborn.
 - D. The company is trying to set up passenger traffic and repair capsules.

Fun doesn't have to Be Expensive

Everyone likes to have fun, but not everyone has much money to spend for it. Here are some free or cheap ways to enjoy yourself.

Try a Hobby

While you're out and about, take pictures of things you find. Painting and taking pictures can make you notice the beauty all around you. And you'll end up with interesting photos. Photographic equipment (摄影器材) can be expensive, but it doesn't have to be. You probably already own a camera or a mobile phone that can take pictures. Other creative hobbies can also be done with basic materials. Drawing and writing only require a pencil and paper.

Get Outside

Going outside in good weather can be a lot of fun, especially if you go with a friend. Hike or cycle in a park. If you live in a city, you can go window shopping.

Find an Event

Libraries often hold free public events, stop by one to find out what's going on. And while you're there, borrow a book or movie for free. Museums and universities also hold free events.

If you can't find a free event, you can volunteer at an event that requires tickets. People who organize concerts and plays need help. You could set up or take down chairs and props (道具) or greet visitors. Sometimes they offer volunteers free tickets.

Meet a Friend

Relationships are often the best things in life. Whatever you do, find someone to share it with. Invite a friend for a walk, an event or a time working on your hobby. If your friend comes in the afternoon, you don't have to serve a meal. You can sit and talk, play board games or card games or watch a movie.

You don't need money to have a fun day.

- 61. What can make you notice the beauty around you?
- 62. Do drawing and writing only require a pencil and paper?
- 63. What are the best things in our life according to the writer?

64. How many ways are mentioned to enjoy ourselves in the passage?
